

AUTODESK INC.

STATEMENT ON HUMAN RIGHTS

On January 1, 2012, the California Transparency in Supply Chains Act of 2010 went into effect in California. This law requires retailers and manufacturers to disclose their efforts to eradicate slavery and human trafficking from their supply chains. The law was designed to increase transparency and allow consumers to make more informed decisions. Autodesk is committed to promoting and protecting human rights wherever it does business. Autodesk has adopted a Code of Business Conduct that conveys our values and business conduct expectations. We expect our suppliers and other business partners to comply with all applicable laws and regulations, including those pertaining to the eradication of human trafficking and slavery, and we will continue to work with our suppliers and refine our own requirements and processes to reinforce our commitment to human rights consistent with our culture of ethical behavior, integrity and respect.